Leadership Institute at San Jacinto College
Presents:

Leading High Performance Teams & Motivating Others

This 1-day foundational leadership course provides leaders with the tools and skills to perform three primary responsibilities—diagnose, coach and reinforce—that support their team’s growth. Leaders learn to diagnose behaviors and conditions that limit team performance. They are equipped to assess team strength and weakness, as well as to use coaching and reinforcing skills to be a catalyst for high performance and continuous improvement. Leaders also learn three factors that affect the motivation of employees—focused work, interpersonal support, and individual value. Leaders determine which factor(s) is “low,” and emerge with both the skills and a plan of specific actions to build group and individual motivation.

This course will help leaders:

• Focus their team’s efforts on high-priority actions that directly support the organization’s goals and strategies
• Enhance the effectiveness of their team by identifying and eliminating conditions that are preventing them from achieving high levels of performance
• Accomplish and surpass team and organizational goals and objectives
• Create an environment in which team members are moved to strive harder to realize the potential of the team
• Accomplish more by capitalizing on the unique talents of each individual team member
• Create an environment that allows individuals and work groups to achieve their full potential
• Spark high levels of sustained energy in individuals and work groups
• Improve work group results by helping people sustain their motivation
